FRIDAY, MARCH 23.

The News regrets that this issue is several hours late, but is unavoidable on account of an accident in our mechanical department, which was repaired early this morning after several hours hard work.

While we have no direct information we understand that Col. Levee Springs, of Lancaster, "might" have been the operator of the cotton mill in Chester, both day and night. This will call for the attention of possibly something like the sixty new houses and will mean an increase in the population of approximately 250 people.

This fact should be gratifying news to Chester people and The News takes this opportunity of saying that if Chester had assumed a friendly attitude toward Mr. Springs and his interests some twenty years ago in all probability he would have done many things for Chester in the way of manufacturing interests. There is no use to deny the fact that Chester county has on more than one occasion, shown an unfriendly spirit toward the Springs interests. Such has been done and the writer knows whereof he speaks. Such being the case Mr. Springs has not seen fit to invest any of his millions in our county, and who can blame him?

A more friendly attitude would no doubt have been of much benefit to Chester people.

Doubtless some people wonder why there is so much opposition to certain departments of the State government in Columbia.

One of the best business men in the country may be at the head of a wholesale grocery concern in Richmond, Va., but if the salesman from that house, who visits merchants in South Carolina, is a fool naturally the merchants of South Carolina will be of the opinion that the salesman is a "fool house," and consequently they will refuse to buy merchandise from the concern.

This is a good illustration of some of the departments of our State government. A particular branch of the government may be organized for a good purpose and it might be capable of doing good work but the fact that certain departments are sending forth through the State to come in contact with the taxpayers, has led the taxpayers to believe that certain State government departments are a "bummer" and should be abolished.

The heads of the departments in Columbia should use better judgment in the selection of men who are coming in direct contact with the taxpayers. If they would do this they would find less opposition in their departments.

The News for several weeks, has been pointing out that the farmers of the state would plant a large acreage in cotton this year. We have had the State to tell us that there would be no material increase in the acreage on account of labor shortage and other things.

The News believes that when the acreage reports begin to come out that we will find a material increase in the acreage of cotton. The following article from a South Georgia newspaper should indicate that the farmers in that section are expecting to "go after" cotton this year.

"The people were brought in today that Mr. Roy Pope, who lives on the east side of the river, about 8 miles from Dublin, has a field of cotton that is already coming up nicely with a full stand in some spots, while other spots are showing signs of men having a full stand."

Just what will be the outcome of such early planting and growth is not known just now, but this is a sign of the advanced stage of farm work all over the country. Farmers have been busy all the year getting ready for a big crop of not only cotton but of every other product planted on farms here, with the result the farm work is fast advancing for the reason.

It is said that other farmers have cotton up and growing just now, as they planted early, with the result that cotton crop of Laurens has the earliest start known here in many years."

Once upon a time there was a merchant in a certain town who got it into his head that advertising would pay. This merchant ran ads in his local newspaper, and he had circulated printed once and while, which he distributed in various sections of the town, placing them in the homes of the people and in the wagons and automobiles. He spent considerable money in advertising.

This merchant would make some glowing statements in his advertisements—they "certainly" did some good. The people from far and wide would flock to his store to see the wonderful bargains being offered. These people after awhile found that this merchant was not living up to his advertisements. He put out catchy ads just to get them into the store, thinking he would be able to advertise great reductions and not give them, and get away with it.

This same merchant would put on big sales and some of the customers who attended the big sale found that instead of making reductions in the price of his goods that he had actually marked many of them up. This merchant thought that any kind of an advertisement would pay. All he had to do was to spend money for printers ink and the goods would move regardless of anything else.

The people soon got on to the manner of doing business and gradually stopped paying any attention to his "glorious" advertisements. They had lost faith in the merchant, and rightly they had. This merchant then came to the conclusion that it did not pay to advertise. Why, he could run a whole page and distribute thousands of circulars yet the people failed to buy his store. Since such was the case he would stop his advertisement. Yet, he is still doing a little business but it is far from satisfactory.

Poor fool, if he had realized that he made the mistake of his life when he spent his money for advertising with the view of misleading the public, if a merchant is not going to advertise honestly, it is best for him to keep his money in his pocket as to advertise falsely is the quickest way in the world to drive trade from your door.

Advertising will pay. It has paid thousands of merchants handsomely, but the merchants who have made good by advertising are the merchants who have been in the square with the public. If a merchant once loses the confidence of the people by false advertising it will take him months to regain their confidence.

EARTHQUAKE STARTS OIL. Great Falls, Mont., March 20.—Coincident with the earthquake felt in this section of Montana recently, an oil well near here resumed flowing, and oil men are wondering whether earthquakes might not be a good substitute for nitroglycerine in "flicking" oil wells into production. The well in question had been flowing steadily for some time until a few months ago, when it showed signs of finally giving up the ghost. Following the tremors oil again spurted from the well at an even greater flow than ever before.

ANOTHER PAYMENT MADE FOR TOBACCO. Checks to Be Sent Out to Growers at Once—No Change in Districts.

Richmond, March 21.—Organized tobacco farmers in 40 counties of Virginia and North Carolina will receive another cash payment from the Tobacco Growers Cooperative association in the near future, according to the announcement of James H. Craig, treasurer of the association, following today's meeting of the directors in Richmond. All members of the association who delivered to the cooperative warehouses of the old belt between December 20 and April 1 will double their money as soon as checks can be made out and distributed following the close of the association's warehouses at the end of this month according to Mr. Craig. The 23 districts from which the directors of the tobacco cooperative are elected by its 85,000 members in Virginia, North Carolina and South Carolina will remain unchanged according to today's decision of the board by whom it was announced that final arrangements for the election of 1923 will be completed during the next few days. The final election of directors in Richmond, which is scheduled for May 5, will be by districts representing approximately equal amounts of tobacco as signed up by the members of the growers' association. The annual meeting of the association will be held in Richmond May 18.

GASOLINE TAX MEASURE PASSED BY VIRGINIANS. Richmond, Va., March 21.—The senate of the Virginia general assembly early this morning passed the Quinn subcommittee tax measure imposing a tax on motor fuels for financing the state highway system. The vote was 24 to 15. The house measure was amended to provide a levy of 2 cents per gallon on gasoline until July 1, 1923, and 3 cents thereafter. One-third of the money raised by the 3-cent levy would be used in financing county or feeder roads, while the remainder would be used in the construction and maintenance of roads included in the state highway system.

Electric Bitters

Do you think of these unwritten items on your electric light bill

Beauty and atmosphere from lighted lamps are a potent influence in drawing the family together, and even the young people pay tribute to it. Daughter Alice, frankly said the other day that one reason why the meetings of her young friends took place so often at her house was that "they thought the lamps here were so pretty." Well—that's all right, needs to keep the children at home, the electric bill out of proportion! Certainly, the home was transformed with electric light as surely as though a painter's hand had touched each part of it. Perhaps, after all, rather than buying the new living room furniture this spring, it would be more economical and just as satisfying to buy two or three new lamps instead!

DALTON TO MAKE FIGHT FOR LIFE

Killed Sweetheart and Rival in Love in Buncombe, Made Escape, Went Fore to Penitentiary and Was Captured in California.

Raleigh, March 20.—Another campaign to save the life of a condemned man possibly approaching the fight for Tom Harris is considered evident as appeals for Jerry Dalton grow more prominent. Jerry has been conducting quite a campaign in his own behalf and has given out a number of newspaper interviews, one of the announcing his intention to write a book in the event the governor commutes him. This moving several newspapers gave prominent display to an appeal to the people of North Carolina by Dalton's mother.

With 14 men awaiting execution at the state prison it also is evident that the summer will see a constant flow of appeals for condemned men.

Dayton, who slew his sweetheart and a rival in love and who escaped two years ago from the Buncombe county jail, spending two years in California and returning to North Carolina, following his unexpected capture, is probably the most prominent of men in death row, and the references fight will be made in his behalf. Persons here who have watched movements to save men from the death chair are looking confidently for organized effort to bring pressure to bear upon the governor.

One thing is certain, however, as past developments have proved, mass or mob appeals for the life of a man convicted by the courts will carry very little weight with Governor Morrison. The Harris case proved this beyond question, the governor rejecting thousands upon thousands of letters and telegrams that flooded his office from people entirely unacquainted with the case, but moved by passionate appeals for the man.

Persons who know the governor know that Jerry Dalton's case will be determined upon its merits and not upon the number of people in covens of the facts and circumstances, who make appeals for him. It is a review of the case, which will come at a hearing expected before many weeks, shows the condemned man has been dealt too severely with by the courts, commutation of the sentence will be the result. If the hearing fails to break down the legal side of the case, sympathetic efforts will be of no avail.

Nevertheless, Dalton will have many persons seeking to aid him, and persons familiar with his case express confidence in the ability of attorneys to prove a too severe sentence. It is described as a young man of remarkable fine appearance and far above the mental and moral standards of most of those who have gone to the chair.

WHERE WE LEAD.

"Treat 'em Rough" was our war slogan in France. But the boys must have confined their efforts to the German.

Anyway, when twenty thousand French women were asked recently what nationality they would choose in a husband, if they were not French, fourteen thousand said American. Exchange—a source of husbands got only 1,800 votes.

When you consider that in four years the French had much more chance to study the qualities of the English than they had in one year to study the American, this vote seems significant.

Of course the French girls are right. The American husband is in a class by himself. This superiority results partly from instinct, largely from training. "You'd better behave" is the American wife's command to her husband, and he does the law in on his side, so far; but the ladies are changing that, and a lot of little importance in any case. The American husbands are ruled by a higher law.

Probably the school teacher is the goddess in the machine. All of us have had what we know in the schoolroom ground into us by women instructors, and we rarely lost the power to rebel. By the time we are old to the altar our taste is hopeless. Thereafter we wait the power to rebel. By the time we are old to the altar our taste is hopeless. Thereafter we wait the power to rebel. By the time we are old to the altar our taste is hopeless. Thereafter we wait the power to rebel.

That, perhaps, is why America leads the world. We are too much afraid of our wives to venture to lead on the job.

ASIA MINOR REFUGEES SUFFERING WITH CHOLERA

Thousands Doomed to Die Within Few Months, Says Dr. Post.

Athens, March 20.—Thirty thousand refugees in Asia Minor are suffering from cholera, small-pox, typhus and dysentery, and half of them, under the prevailing death rate, are doomed to die within a few months, Dr. Wilfred Post, Boston, medical director of the American were driven from the plains of Anatolia by the Turks is a menace to the health of the world, Dr. Post states. An amazing quarantine, he points out, is impossible. The fish in the harbors, he said, would devour the fifth from the disease-ridden refugee ships and the people of Constantinople eat the fish.

The present state of affairs in Constantinople is an outrage to humanity," Dr. Post said. During a tour of inspection the director found five hundred persons crowded in stables and wearing insufficient clothing. The refugees were lying either on the bare ground or under thin quilts. Beneath one quilt, he said, seven people, all ill with typhus or dysentery, were herded. The next day four of these had died. On one of his later visits Dr. Post discovered the three survivors had all passed away and that their bodies had been carried out to a dead wagon which moved on until full and then joggled its way through streets and the bodies were dumped in a long pit just outside the town.

Dr. Post, in one of his latest counted 100 bodies, one room containing 53. The bodies remained unburied for days, surviving refugees fearing they might contract disease if the bodies were handled.

Three thousand of the deportees, according to other communications of the near eastern relief, were some of the most prosperous farmers of Anatolia a few months ago. The vicinity of Constantinople has been the scene of great suffering for decades. Florence Nightingale, the famous nurse, drew a vivid picture of what she discovered at the edge of Anatolia in 1854. She said who walked through four miles of both camp bearing its burden of pain and suffering.

Dr. Post's report, as compared with that of Miss Nightingale, indicates that instead of improving conditions are gradually getting worse.

SMALLPOX IN FAIRFIELD BROUGHT UNDER CONTROL

Winnabow, March 20.—Dr. R. G. Hamilton, the Fairfield county health officer, reports that the smallpox situation in the county is under control. Smallpox, which has broken out in three communities, Ridge-way, Blackstock and Bethel, is confined to adults, and can be directly traced to negroes returning from Virginia and North Carolina, whence they migrated last fall on account of the boll weevil. The county health officer has vaccinated nearly 200 persons, adults and children of pre-school age in the last few days. That there has been no epidemic of smallpox, and the fact that no child of school age has contracted the disease is due entirely to the efficiency and untiring vigilance of the members of the county health unit.
